

Application to the Graduate Student Support Fund (GSSF) managed by the Access, Diversity, and Inclusion team

Princeton University’s culture and unique characteristics are strengthened by its diversity. As articulated in the University’s Statement on Diversity and Inclusion, which was included in the University’s Report of the Trustee Ad Hoc Committee on Diversity, dated September 2013, “Princeton University is a community devoted to excellence in education and scholarship. We believe that only by including people with a broad range of experiences and perspectives are we able to realize our potential — to expand our capacity for teaching and learning, to increase opportunities for innovative research, and to equip students for lives of service and leadership in an increasingly pluralistic society. Thus, the goals of excellence and diversity are inextricably linked.”

In furtherance of these goals, the GSSF provides grants to Princeton graduate students in good standing to allow them to remain in their program and complete their degree in a timely manner. The fund supports graduate students who contribute to the University’s diversity, broadly stated, including members of groups that have been historically and are presently underrepresented in the academy (e.g., racial and ethnic minorities).

All information in the application is strictly confidential and will not be shared beyond the Graduate School and related central administrative offices.

Applications are reviewed on a quarterly basis and are due by 5pm on September 1, December 1, March 1, and June 1 of each year.

Before submitting an application, please read the application information online and make an appointment to meet with one of the deans on the Access, Diversity, and Inclusion team. To set up an appointment, contact Sarah Mullins at smullins@princeton.edu or 609-258-9637. Please set up the appointment at least four weeks prior to the application deadline.
