

Application for the Hanna Fellowship managed by the Access, Diversity, and Inclusion team

Princeton University’s culture and unique characteristics are strengthened by its diversity. As articulated in the University’s Statement on Diversity and Inclusion, which was included in the University’s Report of the Trustee Ad Hoc Committee on Diversity, dated September 2013, “Princeton University is a community devoted to excellence in education and scholarship. We believe that only by including people with a broad range of experiences and perspectives are we able to realize our potential—to expand our capacity for teaching and learning, to increase opportunities for innovative research, and to equip students for lives of service and leadership in an increasingly pluralistic society. Thus, the goals of excellence and diversity are inextricably linked.”

In furtherance of these goals, each year the Graduate School awards a number of partial fellowships to graduate students who require additional funds in order to complete their degree in a timely manner and without significant educational debt. These fellowships are supported by the Charles N. Hanna and Margaret T. Hanna Fund which supports graduate students who contribute to the University’s diversity, including members of groups that have been historically and are presently underrepresented in the academy (e.g., racial and ethnic minorities), and those who have made active contributions to enhancing access, diversity, and inclusion at Princeton.

All information shared in the application is strictly confidential and will not be shared beyond the Graduate School and related central administrative offices.

Applications are due by 5pm on Monday, June 18, 2018.

Application Questions

Please answer each of these questions in the box below.

1. Academic achievements: Please highlight your most significant achievements during your studies at Princeton. Examples might include a brief summary of publications that resulted from your work, presentations at conferences or other scholarly work, excellence in teaching, and any external or internal fellowships that you may have been awarded.
2. Diversity: Please describe how you have contributed to enhancing the diversity of your department, the Graduate School, Princeton, or your academic discipline through your scholarship, advising, advocacy, volunteer work, service, or leadership.

3. Dissertation/thesis progress: How far have you advanced toward completing your dissertation/thesis? Be specific about what parts of the dissertation/thesis research and the writing have been completed (including, for example, the completion of data collection and analysis, research, fieldwork, and the drafting of individual chapters) and what remains to be done.
4. Dissertation/thesis completion plan: Please describe your plan for completing the dissertation/thesis. Include a timeline for completion, including the projected date (month and year) of the final public oral (FPO) if you are a doctoral student. When do you plan to complete the remaining dissertation/thesis research and writing. Please include, for example, dates of completion of data collection and analysis, fieldwork, or archival research, in addition to your schedule for completion of individual chapters.
5. Financial status: Please tell us about your financial situation during your degree program. What financial obligations or pressures did/do you face? Are there circumstances that impacted your financial status (for example, familial or other obligations or debt unrelated to your current graduate program)? What resources and opportunities did you pursue to promote financial stability?
6. Have you incurred (or will you incur) debt related to your current graduate program? If so, for what expenses did you borrow, from whom did you borrow, and what is the amount of the debt?
7. Have you ever applied for and/or received a grant from the Access, Diversity, and Inclusion team at the Graduate School? If so, please provide the date, the amount, and how the funds were used.

Additional Documentation

Please submit the following documents with your application:

- Academic curriculum vitae
- Graduate transcript (unofficial is acceptable)
- Three letters of recommendation from faculty members detailing your qualifications and potential to pursue advanced scholarship or play a leadership role in the field. These letters should confirm that you are in good academic standing and on track to complete your degree by the end of your regular program length (for masters students) and by the conclusion of your sixth year (for doctoral students).

By signing below, I verify that all of the information that I have provided is accurate to the best of my knowledge. I understand that if I have falsified any portion of my application, I will be immediately disqualified from support and may be subject to discipline.
