In this Issue | April 12

- Today! Pathways with a Ph.D. | University Administration
- Social Media Day | The Next Generation of Hiring | Friday, April 13
- The McGraw Center | Upcoming Programs
- Job Opportunities for Humanities PhDs Panel
- 2018 Grad Women Summit | Saturday, April 21
- The Sound of Science | April 17
- Princeton University Press: Careers in Academic Publishing Events | April 27 & May 4
- University Administrative Fellows | New UAFs Added!
- Carpe Careers Blog | Is a bad handshake such a bad thing?

Visit our Website

---

Pathways with a Ph.D.

Career Paths in University Administration | April 12

TODAY!!

5:30 pm - 7:30 pm
Conference Room - Career Services, 36 University Place, Suite 200
RSVP here - reception to follow

This event is open to all graduate students and postdocs, and is part of the Pathways with a Ph.D. series, which provides an opportunity for graduate students to explore possible career paths. Come meet administrators and graduate alumni from various sectors of university administration and learn about the various roles at different universities and colleges open to Ph.D.’s.

Panelists include:
- Cole Crittenden, deputy dean of the Graduate School, Princeton University
- Edward Freeland, associate director, Survey Research Center, Princeton University
- Vanessa Gonzalez-Perez, assistant dean, diversity, initiatives in the natural sciences, Princeton University
- Drew Allen, executive director, IDEAS - Initiative for Data Exploration and Analytics for Higher Ed, Woodrow Wilson School
- Sara Schwarz, Associate Director, Teaching Initiatives and Programs, The McGraw Center

Social Media Day | April 13
9:00 a.m.- 3:00 p.m.
Frist MPR- Schedule of Events

You’re invited to learn, share and connect at Social Media Day, a free, all-day, professional development event for the campus community.

This particular talk may be of interest to graduate students thinking about their job search!

1:15 p.m.: The Next Generation of Hiring: Social Media’s Role in Job Searching and Recruiting - Susan Vitale, Chief Marketing Officer, iCIMS
This session is for talent acquisition, managers and/or job seekers interested in learning how social media can be used effectively in both recruiting efforts and an individual's job search. Consumer behavior across social and mobile technology has dramatically impacted the job search and recruitment process for candidates and recruiters alike. Candidates are now profoundly informed consumers and continuing to attract top talent means developing new strategies that appeal to these applicants. In addition to highlighting case studies of iCIMS customers who are leveraging social recruiting in interesting ways, this session will explore proprietary and external data from iCIMS to help attendees better understand hiring supply and demand, as well as social and mobile recruitment and job searching behaviors and trends.

Learn more and register

Graduate Pedagogy Workshops

Master Class on Teaching with Howard Stone
Tuesday, April 17
4:30 - 5:45 p.m.

The Prison and the Academy: Exploring Critical Prison Pedagogy
Friday, April 13
1:30- 4:00 p.m.
Join us for the second event in this series, which features distinguished teachers from across the disciplines.

Speaker:

Howard Stone, Donald R. Dixon ’69 and Elizabeth W. Dixon Professor of Mechanical and Aerospace Engineering
Chair, Department of Mechanical and Aerospace Engineering

Moderator:

Emily Carter, Dean, School of Engineering and Applied Science, Gerhard R. Andlinger Professor in Energy and the Environment
Professor of Mechanical and Aerospace Engineering and Applied and Computational Mathematics

Please note there is no RSVP for this event, and it does not count towards the Teaching Transcript program.

Graduate Learning Program

Building an Effective Working Relationship with your Adviser
Friday, April 13
12:00-1:20 p.m.
330 Frist Campus Center

Please RSVP by April 11 to reserve a space. Pizza will be provided.

In this workshop, we will help you develop skills to build and maintain a productive working relationship with your adviser(s). We will consider what you want and expect from your adviser and we will discuss best practices for meeting those expectations.

McGraw Center Graduate Student Academic Consultations

Trained Ph.D.s and advanced Ph.D. students from a variety of disciplines can collaborate with you to develop an individualized approach to graduate school that draws upon your unique profile of strengths and is tailored to the specific demands of your research, courses, teaching, and life.

Robertson Hall, Bowl 001

Join us for a public conversation.

At this moment, when institutions of higher learning are recognizing and responding to the crisis of a lack of educational opportunities for incarcerated people, it is timely to reflect critically on the values and potential pitfalls of prison education. We will consider ethical questions about the responsibility academics and the academy bear in ensuring access to higher education within prisons, and reflect on the particular obligations that educators from the outside have to those they are teaching. We will discuss what educators might do to expand education, given that existing programs reach so few of those who are incarcerated, as well as explore how those incarcerated think and feel about educational programs.

This spring’s “The Prison and the Academy” event will seek to frankly address the following questions, among others:

- Should prison education be a by-product of academic life or integral to the work of academic institutions and professionals?
- Are teaching and learning in prisons inherently political acts? Should political beliefs influence curriculum, course content, and pedagogical strategies in the prison classroom?
- Should the experiences of the incarcerated be incorporated into courses?
- When and under what conditions should the experiences of the incarcerated be represented to others by educators?

Reginald Dwayne Betts (Yale Law School)
Lori Gruen (Wesleyan University/Princeton University Center for Human Values)

In conversation with:

Boris Franklin (Rutgers University)
Joshua Miller (Georgetown University)

Following brief presentations from our discussants, we look forward to an open discussion with the audience. Brief reception to follow.

Questions? Contact the organizers Prof. Lori Gruen (lgruen@princeton.edu), Brittany Holom (bholom@princeton.edu), and Jill Stockwell (jfstockw@princeton.edu)

Sponsored by the University Center for Human Values, the McGraw Center for Teaching and Learning, and the Prison Teaching Initiative
These confidential consultations focus on your personal priorities and tasks. Make an appointment here. Look for appointment slots which indicate “Graduate Consultant” next to the consultant’s name.

---

Job Opportunities for Humanities PhDs in grants, libraries, digital humanities, teaching, administration, and writing programs!

April 16
12 pm - 1 pm
Center for Digital Humanities
Firestone Library, Floor B

Are you a humanities PhD student looking for a fulfilling job that will make use of your interests and skills? Do you want something that’s more than a fallback, a job you’ll actually love as a career? Recent PhDs will share their experiences working in grants, libraries, digital humanities, teaching, administration, and writing programs! Lunch provided.

Speakers:
- Colette Johnson *18 (English) | Grants Associate, Ithaka S+R
- Joanna Swafford, Digital Humanities Specialist, Tufts University (via skype)
- Nimisha Barton *15 (History) | most recently Associate Director, Freshman Scholars Institute
- Christopher Kurpiewski *14 (History) | Associate Director for the Writing Seminars, Princeton

Please RSVP
2018 Grad Women Summit | April 21

9 am- 2 pm
300 Wallace Hall

RSVP here

The Access, Diversity and Inclusion team and various graduate student groups are excited to invite you to participate in the 2018 Graduate Women’s Summit. This is an inclusive event and graduate students from all genders are welcome. The motivation for this event stems from the idea of providing a networking platform and safe space for our women and gender non-conforming graduate students to have a productive conversation about their experiences in graduate school.

PROGRAM:

Breakfast: Welcome from Dean Sarah-Jane Leslie ’07 and student leaders
Student panel: The Joys and Challenges of Graduate Life
Breakout groups: Students discuss their experiences
Lunch and networking with student affinity groups
Keynote address: Professor Georgia Nugent ’73, President Emerita, Kenyon College

The Sound of Science - A night of poetry, storytelling, and conversation about science | April 17

8-10 pm @ the DBar
Must be 21 and over to attend

Come explore the intersection between science & creative writing in a relaxed night with other part-time writers and poets! During this ‘open-mike’ night, you’re welcome to read aloud your favorite piece of writing about science (whether it’s a poem or a particularly poetic lab report). You can also grab a glass of something, sip, and listen to the sounds of science.

Princeton University Press Careers in Academic Publishing Seminar for Graduate Students

Friday, May 4, 2018
Noon-1:30 p.m.
Princeton University Press - 41 Williams Street, Princeton
Lunch will be served, please RSVP here

Join professionals from the Princeton University Press, Rutgers University Press, and Columbia University Press for a conversation about careers in academic book publishing. There are many interesting opportunities—from editorial and production to design and publicity—you may not be familiar with in the industry. Learn more about this career option from professionals in the field!
Fall 2018 University Administrative Fellows Openings

The UAF Program allows enrolled Ph.D. students (including DCE students) who have completed their general examination an opportunity to work in an administrative capacity for up to six hours per week over the course of the fall semester with a host office. Currently accepting applications:

- Survey Research Center
- Mudd Manuscript Library
- Princeton University Press - Scholarly Publishing Trend Analysis
- Princeton University Press - Production Editorial Processes and New Technology
- Princeton University Press - Data Visualization and Interactive Design
- Office of Technology Licensing
- Community Based Learning Initiative
- Princeton Writes
- Office of Engineering Communications
- IDEAS for Higher Education
- Corporate Engagement and Foundation Relations
- Corporate Engagement and Foundation Relations - Life Sciences
- Office of Career Services
- PACE Center for Civic Engagement
- Office of Undergraduate Research - Princeton Research Day
- Office of the Dean of the Graduate School - Academic Affairs

More positions will be available over the next few weeks, so please check the website often for updates and be mindful of application deadlines.

Read more...

Carpe Careers Blog | Hand-Shaking Tips for Making the Right Impression

Take a moment to think about your handshake. When was the last time you shook someone’s hand? Why did you do it? Were you standing or sitting? Did the other person have a strong handshake? What impression did they make on you? Is a bad handshake such a bad thing? Yes, and especially when the person whose hand you are shaking has a professionally firm one, writes Joseph Barber. Joseph is associate director of career services at the University of Pennsylvania and a member of the Graduate Career Consortium -- an organization providing a national voice for graduate-level career and professional development leaders. Read more...
Get involved and grow!

Stay Connected

facebook | twitter | instagram